ONEUNITED BANK AND HBCU PRIDE NATION ANNOUNCE SOCIAL AND DIGITAL MEDIA CAMPAIGN PARTNERSHIP

Boston, MA – March 25, 2016 – OneUnited Bank, the largest Black-owned bank in the country, and HBCU Pride Nation - the premier HBCU marketing and media company - proudly announce their partnership to increase financial literacy and deposits into Black-owned banks via social and digital media.

This partnership will allow the two organizations to collectively create powerful and engaging social media marketing campaigns aligned with both organizations missions to encourage Black economic growth within the communities they serve, starting with the #BlackTransferChallenge.

Working with OneUnited through its subsidiary, HBCU Wall Street, the initial campaign activation – which focuses on educating the social community on the existence of Black-owned banks in America and the benefits of reinvesting within the community by moving their dollars into Black-owned financial institutions – sparked a viral trend which both groups look to expand on in the coming months.

Through the use of social channels like Facebook, Twitter, Instagram and a co-branded web presence, both groups look to raise awareness and engagement with their combined substantial social audiences. The goal is to reach and activate new members within the Black community, especially the HBCU audience, and to direct much needed revenue and financial literacy into the community.
